

Presenting Military to Medicine. A program making career transitions at ease.

By providing healthcare training and career opportunities to America's extended military family, Military to Medicine is changing the way healthcare employers find and hire the best workforce ready job candidates.

- Military spouses
- Wounded warriors and their caregivers
- Veterans, National Guard, Reserve and their spouses
- Service members transitioning to civilian employment

The path to a portable healthcare career
you can take anywhere.

Our program provides...

initial assessments prior to taking courses to ensure your career goals, personality and skill sets are a match. We want to help you find not just a job, but a long-term career that you can enjoy and grow with. Through the WorkKeys assessment process provided by ACT Inc., you can earn the National Career Readiness Certification — a standard that many states and employers are now requiring. To further ensure your success, we offer the opportunity to practice or refresh your skills, using World-wide Interactive Network's WIN Courseware, prior to your formal certification test.

Following the career readiness assessments, our team helps you create an individual career plan and then maps out the courses to get you there. Our course offerings — in partnership with McGraw Hill, a leader in allied health curriculum content — align to both state and national competencies.

Training that leads to entry-level healthcare careers in administrative support, information technology and clinical fields.

Our support goes beyond career assessment, training and coaching.

We provide access to a growing national network of healthcare employers who have made a commitment to support military families in their search for employment. Each one has signed a letter of commitment to help our participants who are looking for employment. It's a win-win situation: our participants have access to thousands of current open positions, and healthcare employers can easily source thousands of quality candidates who are ready to work.

If you want to work, we'll make you ready:
Healthcare Workforce Ready.
